NORDIC

A décor made of materiality, Nordic inspiration, and Italian at heart, where the grey Vicenza stone worktop, skilfully treated to make it smooth, waterproof and oil-repellent, is the focus of the long central island that embraces the cooking area. The wooden counter in bleached fir acts as a link between the kitchen and the living area, channeling the energy and shaping the domestic dynamics of the home. Column cabinets with recessed doors, finished in liquid metal the colour of cast iron, complete the spaces. Nordica knows how to redefine living spaces with the essentiality of tradition and modern, innovative materials.

NORDIC

A cinematically-inspired design to reach the hearts of those who experience it. The textural décor is typical of the Nordic kitchen: the grey Vicenza stone for the worktop meets the counter in bleached fir wood. Let yourself be inspired.

Elegance, a sense of order and lots of room to move are what make this living set by Krieder stand out, representing a perfect link between the kitchen and living room, and customisable to suit needs and desires.

NORDIC

For the first time, Nordic incorporates the Variant system, created in conjunction with the firm, Benedini Associati, to meet the desire for change that we all feel, with what is practically an infinite range of applicable materials and finishes. An aluminium frame houses the front panels of the units, that can be easily changed, choosing from a rich palette of materials as the interior designer, architect and customer prefer. Column units, with recessed doors – in cast-iron-co-loured liquid metal finish.

NORDIC

One wall is used for the important column units, with recessed doors – in cast-iron-co-loured liquid metal finish – to make the most of storage space and also house large and small domestic appliances and cupboards. It can be opened and closed as needed to reveal the Nordic styling of the interior, in pale dusty blue with bleached fir wood shelves.

NORDIC

A long central island, the result of joining the cooking area with a bleached fir worktop, embodies the sheer know-how and love of materials for which Krieder is known for, and it has been designed to become the very heart of the energy and the domestic and social dynamics of the home.
